-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 03 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings were received on 02/19/02. These drawings are approved for examination purpose.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1, 3-4, 6, 8, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zhou (US 6,353,700).

Re claims 1, 3-4, 6, 8, and 10, Zhou discloses a computer-readable carrier (fig. 2) includes computer program (200, 212, 214, and 218 of fig. 1) that cause a computer (200) to perform a method of displaying an MPEG coded compressed video signal in a reverse time sequence, wherein the computer comprises:

the step of retrieving a first group of pictures (GOP) (MPEG VIDEO FILE, 602 of fig. 6) upon initiation of reverse play command (col. 2, lines 39-50), the retrieved first (GOP) being the GOP displayed immediately preceding the command on a display ((110, 120 of fig. 5) a video decoder (502 of fig. 5) which decodes intra-coded frames (I-frames) (604 of fig. 6) and predictively coded frames (P-frames) (608 of fig. 6) from a first group of pictures (GOP) upon initiation of a reverse play command (602 of fig. 6);

a memory (508, 510, and 512 of fig. 5) into which the video decoder stores the decoded I-frames and P-frames of the first GOP; means (110, 120 of fig. 5) for displaying a frame stored in memory while the I-frames and P-frames of the first GOP are decoded; and a controller (506 of fig. 5) that controls the video decoder, the memory and the means for displaying such that, after the decoded I-frames and P-frames of the first GOP have been stored, the controller:

a) controls the video decoder to decode bi-directionally- predictive encoded frames (B-frames) using the stored key frames (620 of fig. 6) and controls the means for displaying to display the B-frames (622 of fig. 6) as they are decoded;

b) controls the means for displaying to display the I-frames and P-frames from the memory as they are encountered in the reverse time sequence (col. 2, lines 43-44, and col. 7, lines 30-36); and

c) controls the decoder and the memory to decode and store I-frames and P-frames from a second GOP (the process of decoding I and P frames is repeated for the next GOP), following the first GOP in the reverse time sequence, while respective ones of the I-frames and P-frames of the first GOP are displayed (see fig. 4, displayed video).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2, 5, 7, and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Choi (US 6,442,201) discloses a down conversion decoding device of digital television.
